Finding Answers in Ask Poli

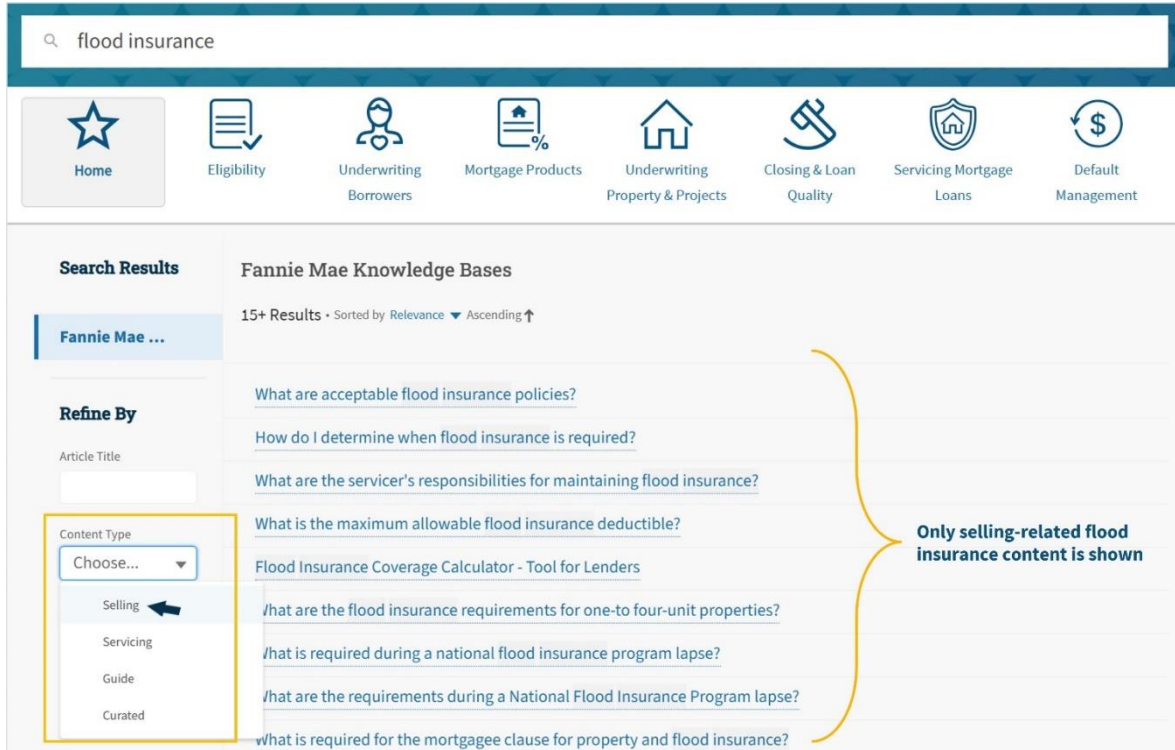

There are several ways to find answers to your policy questions: use the search bar, navigate to content, or easily access the Guides.

1. Searching: Use the search bar to enter a question like, "How do I calculate rental income?" or keywords like, "accessory dwelling unit". Either select from the options presented under the search bar or press "enter" for a more robust list of results to choose from. Refine the list of results by Content Type (Selling, Servicing, Guide, and Curated). See the examples below for more details.

- In the first search example, predictive results appear under the search bar. You can choose a specific article title or display a list of articles related to your search theme.

- In this search example, after pressing enter to display a more robust list of results, you can refine the list by using Content Type.
 - "Selling" or "Servicing" displays either all selling-related or servicing-related content.
 - "Guide" displays only Guide topics.
 - "Curated" displays only curated content (FAQs, individual Q&As, and other sources).

✓ Pro Tip: Want Guide topics to appear higher in your search results? Enter the Guide Part letter first (Part A, B, C, etc.) and then your search query. For example, instead of just searching for rental income, search B rental Income which puts the Selling Guide topic B3-3.1-08, Rental Income higher in the list of search results!

2. Navigating: Use the icons and browse the menu on the left to drill down to the desired content.

The screenshot displays a user interface for navigating through a guide. At the top, a navigation bar includes icons for Home, Eligibility, Underwriting Borrowers (highlighted with a '1'), Mortgage Products, Underwriting Property & Projects, Closing & Loan Quality, Servicing Mortgage Loans, and Default Management. On the left, a vertical navigation menu lists five steps: 1. Underwriting Borrowers, 2. Income Assessment, 3. Rental Income, 4. Calculating Monthly Qualifying Rental Income (Loss), and 5. List of Related Articles. The main content area is titled 'Browse' and contains several sub-sections. The 'Rental Income' sub-section is expanded, showing a list of articles. A yellow box highlights the 'List of Related Articles' section, which contains the following questions:

- What items can be added back when using Schedule E to calculate rental income?
- If rental income is reported on a joint Schedule E, but only one spouse is on the loan, can the full rental income be used?
- If a borrower is not always required to provide IRS Form 1040, how does the lender confirm that the borrower does not own rental properties that may be generating a loss?
- How is rental income calculated when the borrower is a joint owner of rental property?
- How do I calculate rental income?
- How do I determine the amount of rental income that can be used from a property?

3. Access the Guides: Drill down to a specific Chapter or Guide Topic using the Table of Contents.

What is required when using a lease agreement, Form 1007, or Form 1025 to calculate rental income?

Lease Agreements, Form 1007, or Form 1025

When current lease agreements or market rents reported on Form 1007 or Form 1025 are used, the lender must calculate the rental income by multiplying the gross monthly rent(s) by 75%. (This is referred to as "Monthly Market Rent" on the Form 1007.) The remaining 25% of the gross rent will be absorbed by vacancy losses and ongoing maintenance expenses.

When using a lease agreement, the lease agreement amount must be supported by

- Form 1007 or Form 1025, as applicable, or
- evidence the terms of the lease have gone into effect. Evidence may include:
 - two months consecutive bank statements or electronic transfers of rental payments for existing lease agreements, or
 - copies of the security deposit and first month's rent check with proof of deposit for newly executed agreements.

For additional information, see B3-3.1-08, Rental Income.
